

August 14, 2010

Message: Dear Dr. Bohler,

I live in Oskaloosa Iowa about 65 miles south of Des Moines. I remember reading in one of your earlier updates that great flooding was again coming to the midwest. Spring passed with some minor flooding but nothing great but now we are into August with some of the most major flooding ever depending on exactly where you live. My daughter called me the other morning early for help with what my son-in-law estimated to be at least 400 gallons of water in their basement. It wouldn't quit coming in! It actually was coming in through the floor! My son-in-law who is a Christian but doesn't really believe we are in the last days actually said, " It reminds you of a Biblical Thing like in the days of Noah when the water not only came down but came up from the 'deep'. I think he was much more prophetic than he knows. I know that we are in the last days and read your blog just about every day. You were certainly right on on this. We have lost a lot of crops, our cattle are knee deep in mud and have to drive 3X's are far to Oskaloosa but we are safe and know that we are in God's care. Thank you for all that you do to warn us and to intercede for the people of God.

Your Sister in Christ,

Marjorie